George W. Lynde fell, a few days ago, through a scuttle-hole in his barn and received a painful injury to one or more ribs from striking against the side of the open-ing. He has been having a bad hand that has just required opening. The trouble is to have followed his paring down of a cal-loused place on the hand. Mrs. Lynde has been ill, too, this week, requiring medical care. A minor affliction is the serious illcare. A minor affliction is the serious illness of one of Mr. Lynde's best horses.

Rev. Charles H. Farnsworth, son-in-law of the late Reuben Hatch, goes from Law-rence, Mass., to the First Methodist church in Manchester, N. H.

Our Ladies' Reading ciub was pleasantly entertained in Barre last Wednesday after-noon by the Clover club. The day was favorable for the event.

Our venerable and much respected townsman, Foliansby Goodrich, died last Thurs day evening at the age of nearly eighty-seven years, the result mainly of old age. He had, however, retained his faculties to a remarkable degree and but for rheuma-tism, had had pretty good health. He was a native of Brookfield, cut had lived in town as a farmer for many years. His wife, who, with three of his five children, survives him, was Bethia, a daughter of the late Martin Harrington. He was buried, from his late home on Saturday afternoon, Rev. F. E. Currier, pastor of the Methodist church, of which Mr. Goodrich had long been a member, officiating. Honest, upright, winsome, leading ever a quiet life, the world has been made happier and better for his having lived in it.

better for his having lived in it. Mrs. Flora Kilby Howe, a long time teacher here, now of Barre, was in town last week. Her widowed mother accompanied her.

Mrs. John Adams has been ill of late with srysipelas and under medical care.

Elwin T. Whitney was able to ride to the village last week, after a three months ill-ness, from an operation in connection with appendicitis. He hopes now for permanent reflef. He sees now how much better he might have been if he had been operated on two or more years ago.

The Lyceum Bureau that has supplied our entertainment courses in late winters is again on hand for another season's supply.

Ladies wishing stylish suits can find them at very reasonable prices at Homer Fitts,' Barre.

We are told by one of our committee that the matter is practically settled that the of-fer of this bureau will be accepted, and it is hoped that a better course than ever before has been promised us. Catalogues of the entertainments will soon be furnished.

Sanford F. Dutton's son has a registered Berkshire swine from the farm of Hood of Sarssparilla' fame, Lowell, Mass. There has been a fresh epidemic of colds nere in the last week or two.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie D. Gale, for months past at the Pavilion in Montpeller, came up here last Saturday. We hear that Mr. Gale may later come back to look after his farming interests here.

The roof of the Congregational parsonage barn is about to pass out of a skimmer style, if the pile of shingles near by is a true indication.

Mrs. Dennis Carlin was called to Newport last week by the illness of her mother. Gurdon Martin lost one of his granite am horses last week.

Henry F. Erskine has a horse that has failed up temporarily in road machine work. The secretary of our school board reports seventeen teachers employed here, eight of whom are non-residents. Wages in graded achools are $7.50 and $8 per week, while $4 to $6 are paid in the other schools.

The iron gray whiskered and active stranger, seen in our midst of late is a representatives of the Universalist Leader of Boston, for which paper he has been successfully canvassing.

John A. Perry has just added a bay window to George W. Nichols residence. George A. Ainsworth wants to sell the General E. Bass farm of over 100 acres, in our village. Not only can it be made a productive farm, but a man of wealth could make it a very beautiful country residence. Any one desiring to open it up for residence lots can make it a lovely addition to our village. Perhaps no other property of its size, for sale here just now, offers so many natural inducements to buy. Mr. Ainsworth invites correspondence with would be purchasers who mean business. Mrs. Julia Work Blanchard has been staying in Barre for several week. Her daughter Neilie will graduate from Goddard Seminary this fall.

Fred, son of Melvin E. Burnham. graduate from Goddard Seminary this fall. Rev. Walter R. Davenport and wife were in town last week. Mr. Davenport is on the skirmish line just now in anticipation of the new work he is to engage in as com-ing principal of the Montpelier Seminary. He is a tall man, and it is said that one of the boys at the Seminary was recently over-heard to say, as he saw him, we shall have to walk straight when he gets here, for he to walk straight when he gets here, for he can look into a third-story window. But we can assure young and old, Methodists generally, that this gentleman's work will not be mainly sky-scraping. He has a lively was of getting down to business, and as that is to be influe part, the raising of funds to carry on the work of the Seminary, we suspect that fat pocket books in his bailiwick will not be likely to gather much rust on their hinges.

on their hinges. George W. Savery has recently had word from the superintendent of the asylum at Waterbury concerning an aged townsman, Mr. Church, who has been there for a few years. The man is in a very feeble condi-tion, and suffering more or less from pain-ful delusions.

The mother of Maynard Kiser is visiting him at present. One of our townsfolk has a brother who had the following experience in the minis-try in a Vermont town. He had married a couple and the groom asked him what his fee would be. The clergyman replied that the law allowed him half a dollar. Taking haif a dollar from his pocket book, the new-ly married man handed it to him saying:

"The law allows you half a dollar, and here is another half dollar, and that will m ke you a dollar." Such figuring could hardly fail to amuse the minister, but we suspect that too many a minister, would if present that too many a minister would, if presed, have to say that that was the kind of arith-metic that had been used more than once in deal with some members of their parishes. John W. Bacon will sell his farm, the old

Asa S. Simonds' farm, in the northwest section of the town, at auction on Thursday afternoon of this week.

Gilbert O. Smith has just bought an Eclipse corn planter and will plant his own and his neighbors corn, if wanted.

The Free Baptists here are to have the services another ; year, the minister they have had for several years, who lives in Washington and supplies the church there. Herbert P. Martin and Albert H. Norris are doing the stone work of the foundation for J. B. Brockway's new store.

Lawyer John W. Gordon of Barre has nst notified our selecmen that our town oust defend the suit lately brought against must defend the suit lately brought against Constable Azro A. Reed, who, in obedience to the instructsons of our board of civil authority, proceeded to collect taxes assessed by our town last year against one Timothy Blanchard, formerly of Brookfield. Mr. Blanchard, it seems, was assessed in Brookfield last year and paid taxes there and refused to pay here. He also failed to appear before our board of civil authority, at the proper time for an abatement of these taxes assessed here. The result was that Constable Reed took Mr. Blanchard to our county jail in Chelsos. Following this, Mr. Reed was taken for false imprisonment of Mr. Blanchard and hence the jooming suit. Frank Plumley of Northfield is Mr. Blanchard's lawyer. The case may not likely come up till the December term.
